Disclosures

Investigative Consumer Report:

Michigan State University (the "University") may request an investigative consumer report about you from HireRight, LLC ("HireRight"), a consumer reporting agency, in connection with your employment or application for employment (including independent contractor or volunteer assignments, as applicable). An "investigative consumer report" is a background report that includes information from personal interviews (except in California, where that term includes background reports with or without information obtained from personal interviews), the most common form of which is checking personal or professional references through personal interviews with sources such as your former employers and associates, and other information sources. The investigative consumer report may contain information concerning your criminal history, credit standing, social security number verification, education and employment verification, and other information. You may request more information about the nature and scope of an investigative consumer report, if any, by contacting the University. A more comprehensive background investigation may be required pursuant to state or federal law or for certain sensitive positions (such as those with significant financial responsibilities).

Ongoing Authorization:

If the University hires you or contracts for your services, the University may obtain additional consumer reports and investigative consumer reports about you without asking for your authorization again, throughout your employment or your contract period, as allowed by law.
